

Domestic Quota definition

The criteria for a domestic quota player:

- i. Presently registered by the Participating Countries' NGB; and
- ii. Having played a minimum of ten matches in the current or most recent Participating Countries' championship season [or for a club based within the participating country but with a league structure beyond that country] or a combination of both the current and preceding season; or
- iii. If less than ten games have been played as per ii, above, not having played rugby league in any other country; or
- iv. Currently playing overseas having originally transferred from a team in the country applying for domestic quota clearance for which the player has played a minimum of ten matches in that country's domestic championship, or if less than ten games have been played as per ii, above, not having played rugby league in any other country; or
- v. Is a product of the Participating Countries' youth programme:
  - a) having played a minimum of ten registered youth games domestically or
  - b) If less than ten games have been played as per a), not having played rugby league in any other country

If a case arises that is not covered by the above the IRL will make a judgment based on the spirit of the rule, which is to promote players who play rugby league in the Participating Country.
